THE SILVER BELT TO NEW ZEALAND

Tourist Who Passed Through Globe a Few Years Ago Wants the Paper

The following letter was received by the Silver Belt yesterday and speaks for itself:

Auckland, New Zealand, March 11, 1907.

Editor of Silver Belt:
Dear Sir: A few years ago a touring party from here visited Globe on our way to California.

We had heard so much of American cowboys and Indians that we thought it worth our while to stage the long way to get to the most out of the way towns, as it was spoken of by Cook's, who we were traveling under.

We have never regretted our experience and often talk of the trip. The object of this letter is to get in touch with the place and try to live over again the joy of entering for the first time a country so wild, wild, grand and altogether beautiful.

Will you send me a paper each week up to amount enclosed. Meanwhile, write me what it will cost for one year, including postage, and will send by return. I am

Yours respectfully,
MRS. ASMUS,
Cor. Salisbury and Bradford Streets, Auckland.

P. S.—We get our mail from San Francisco every three weeks.

Closing of the Paris Morgue
There is a lady, a member of a foreign aristocracy, who, the moment she arrives in Paris, drives off to the morgue. Apparently it gives her an agreeable sensation before dinner. No self-respecting British tourist ever missed the morgue if he could help it; that is the standing joke of Paris. Yet the Parisian himself can be a very morbid creature. On the morrow of a crime it is astonishing to see the buses disgorge in front of the lugubrious little building; the world hurries in to have a look at the victim before business hours. Well, these innocent pleasures are to be stopped; M. Lepine says so. He has not been able to find another site for the melancholy monument but he has decided to close its doors to the merely curious. Only those who have information to give tending to identification will be admitted in the future. That famous sketch of Cham's representing two "voyons" in conversation outside the morgue, with the legend: "Ah, how 'triste' it is today; there is nobody there," has become a mere historical document.—London Pall Mall Gazette.

Contention as to Drink
Twenty doctors in England have stirred up a great controversy in that kingdom by publishing a signed manifesto in the London Lancet last week justifying the use of alcohol as a medicine and a food.

In their declaration these physicians boldly assume that they are endorsing the "universal belief of civilized mankind." The friends of temperance in Great Britain are now marshaling the opinions of other medical men to prove that the enlightened world has given no such unanimous verdict in favor of drink.

The discussion has begun to attract attention in America. Against the testimony of these few London doctors is the experience of the ages that the value of liquor is a delusion and its continued use a curse.

That it has therapeutic uses when the heart action flags may be conceded. Too often, however, the physical ills it temporarily allays have been brought about through the excessive indulgence in drink in some period of the patient's life.—New York American.

Picture Restored Woman's Reason
Mrs. R. Liberto, wife of a well-to-do Italian merchant of Verona, is falling a victim to melancholy for an odd reason. Six years ago, after the birth of a child, her mind became affected and her husband sent to Italy for a picture she valued highly and with which her happiest girlhood days were associated. When the picture was hung up in her room it seemed to have an almost instant effect. Her mind became quieter and she recovered.

On Easter Sunday evening some roistering countrymen fired revolvers in a reckless fashion to celebrate the occasion, and a bullet which entered the Liberto house did no further damage than to shatter this important picture. Since then Mrs. Liberto has acted oddly again and her husband has begun a search for a duplicate of the picture in hope of restoring her mind.—Pittsburg dispatch to the Philadelphia Press.

FUNERAL NOTICE

HENDERSON—The funeral of Lillian V., infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson, will take place from the family residence Wednesday, April 17, at 10 a. m. Friends invited.

EDWARDS FUNERAL IS VERY LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of the late Judge E. J. Edwards was held yesterday afternoon and was very largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. Services were conducted at the Methodist church, which was crowded throughout by those who had come to pay their last respects. Rev. Decker read the Episcopal service and music was furnished by a male quartet and a mixed choir. In behalf of the Globe County Bar association, Attorney George J. Stone, delivered a very expressive eulogy, a high and feeling tribute to the life of the deceased. A large concourse followed the remains to the cemetery in carriages and on foot and the members of the A. O. U. W. marched in a body to the grave.

The pallbearers were selected from the Globe County Bar association, the sorrowful duty being performed by Attorneys Lucas, Eggers, McCollum, Weinberger, Little and Jacobs.

An Old-Time Showman

Mr. Charles Riggs, father of the star of "The College Boy" company, Ralph Riggs, was a caller at the Silver Belt yesterday.

Mr. Riggs was the manager of the Rose Stillman company which was the opening attraction of the Old Fellows opera house. This attraction played a week in Globe at the time of the opening and many of the old-timers will remember Rose Stillman, the star of the company. Her repertoire at that time was "La Belle Marie," "Queen's Evidence," "Jane," "Charley's Aunt," "The Senator" and other well known comedies and dramas. The company was brought here at the instigation of Vic Bloom and J. J. Keegan, who saw the show in Phoenix and induced Manager Riggs to cancel other time and bring his show to Globe. The result was highly satisfactory and as the company was clever, they did an enormous business and made many friends.

Mr. Riggs is astonished at the wonderful strides that Globe has made in the past ten years and makes all sorts of nice prophecies for the future. He expresses his pleasure at the big business and hearty welcome accorded his son Ralph and his clever organization that played "The College Boy" at the Dreamland theater last night.

Train Bows Rock Half a Mile

The Capital Express, on the Central New England railway, carrying state legislators, yesterday struck a boulder west of Canaan. The train was stopped but as the boulder was not in sight, Edward Smith, the Engine driver, supposed it had gone down the embankment and resumed his journey.

After running a half mile the train was again stopped because of unusual vibration felt in the cab, and investigation showed that the rock had gone under the pilot and had been tumbled over and over in front of the locomotive. The pilot and ties were badly splintered. That the train was not derailed and thrown down the embankment was considered amazing.—Winston, Conn., dispatch to New York Herald.
